EXECUTIVE OPERATING MANDATE

Establish your executive AI position without months of discovery.

CEOs, CFOs, and Private Equity Operating Partners are under intense pressure to deliver an executive AI strategy. But traditional consulting models take 90 days just to deliver a slide deck.

The Alternative Approach

Start with a working strawman in days. Harden it through structured weekly sprints. Deliver board-level defensibility before traditional firms finish their stakeholder interviews.

THE CORE DILEMMA

Scattered pilots do not equal an executive strategy.

Across most organizations, AI adoption is fractured into uncoordinated departmental pockets:

Shadow Experimentation
Teams using unvetted consumer tools without IP or confidentiality safeguards.

Departmental Silos
Sales, Engineering, and Marketing buying separate software that fails to talk to corporate data.

Zero Audit Trail
No mechanism to prove compliance, explain model decisions, or protect enterprise valuation.

TANGIBLE DELIVERABLES

What a complete Executive AI Position looks like.

PILLAR 1 The Executive AI Position

Defines corporate boundaries, capital allocation, approved use cases, and strategic red lines for the board.

PILLAR 2 The Operating Architecture

Binds human workflows with autonomous systems, establishing team-level tooling, throughput, and oversight.

PILLAR 3 The Corporate Governance Plan

Ensures compliance with Delaware Caremark oversight, SEC disclosure, and audit committee risk thresholds.

THE DISCIPLINE

Why we believe in progressive hardening.

A plan created in a vacuum fails upon contact with the board. We subject every draft to systematic pressure-testing:

Adversarial Stress-Testing

Testing assumptions against regulatory shifts, competitive disruptions, and budget stress.

Multi-Perspective Judicial Review

Evaluating the deliverable through CEO, CFO, General Counsel, and CIO lenses.

Board-Ready Defense

Arming leadership with quantitative support for every strategic choice and trade-off.

ACTION GATE

Start with a working strawman next week.

Whether you need an executive AI position built from the ground up or want to stress-test your existing draft before presenting to directors:

Two Confidential Engagement Paths

Path 1: Ground-Up Build • Complete working strawman in 5 days, weekly hardening to board approval.

Path 2: Defensibility Audit • Systematic pressure-testing of your existing draft to identify blind spots.
